

Brazil - Iron ore

June 6, 1911

Hill to Charles R. Van Hise

Has talked again with Farrer, who is greatly interested in question of a permanent supply of high grade iron ore for Great Britain. His connections are the very best in Europe. He has a close friend with whom they do much business Sir Ernest Cassals, who has had charge of large matters for the British government, the last important one being the building of the Nile Irrigation Works at Assouan. You should see Farrer before you go to Berlin. Tells of Barings "greater part of all the business of the South American States in Europe for over 100 years." [Aswan Dam of today]
