

Kennedy, John S.

August 1, 1902

John S. Kennedy to J. J. Hill

"The increase in the earnings of all three railroads, and especially the G. N. and N. P. is unprecedented and I would be disposed to consider it phenomenal, were it not for the emigration that is going on, and the new settlements that are being made in the Western country."

General correspondence by date