Wm. Hancock Clark to J.J.Hill.

Thanks Hill for the complimentary passes, "bearing the official signature of our dear old mutual friend Wm. Crooks," to Portland, Astoria and Seattle. At Belton met Hill's sons Louis and Walter, walter's tutor [Bridgman] and Carl Smith. In Great Falls, Montana was entertained by Paris Gibson and C.W. Russell, who drove them to the Falls, "which so interested my grandfather" [Clark of Lewis and Clark Expedition] "in 1806."

General correspondence by date.
