

Granger Laws

When Minnesota legislatures were in session, JJH stayed in St. Paul to prevent the passage of Granger laws detrimental to his railroad. See, for example, his letter of January 25, 1885. He tries to get "right" members chosen on vital committees. This was true throughout the 1880's.

JJH Letterbooks.