

Hanna, Mark A.

May 11, 1898

Carbon. James J. Hill to Mark Hanna.

Has just returned from Europe. States that continental Europe is practically united in its sympathy for Spain. England is more friendly toward the United States, but is being careful not to appear too prejudiced in favor of the United States. The Secretary of War's actions toward General Merritt are creating much feeling. Hopes that the matter will be settled fairly.
