

Hill, James J.-Art Gallery June 15, 1892

J. Oehme to James J. Hill.

"Your gallery as a collection of the school of 1830-1840 is well nigh superior to any I know in this country, and there remains but little to be added, except if now and then an especially fine work of that school should be available. The gallery itself is well lighted and constructed, and the house itself and interior arrangements grand, yet in every part showing simplicity and unity of style."

General correspondence by date