Hill to Senator Knute Nelson

Re a cattle disease last winter on his Northcote Farm, which was cured by a Manitoba man named Harrison. Harrison has now been summoned by an officer of U.S. Immigration Bureau. Hill asks Nelson's help for this man, telling of the 800 throbred bulls and over 6,000 sheep and hogs "I have given farmers" of the Northwest. "Last summer I imported a number of the best cattle and sheep that I could find in England."
