

Hill, J.J. - Character

November 3, 1900

J.S. Kennedy to Hill

Thanks Hill for "the recent excursion over the Road with you," which was "one I have long desired to make." States that the trip "has been alike educational and profitable and I appreciate now, more than I ever did before, the great and invaluable services you have rendered to all of those associated with you, the time, the labor and the intelligence you have given to the maintenance and development of the great property now under your care."
