

St. Paul, Minnesota

1850-1870

There are very fine descriptions of the appearance of St. Paul at this time -- its customs, food, clothing, social habits, prices paid for certain articles, the Indians, etc. in the book, "James J. and Mary T. Hill," an unfinished chronicle by their daughter, Clara Hill Lindley, on pages 46-86.