10 volumes 1884-1914

These are press volumes in which Hill's clerks copied (by the usual press method) documents such as: lists of Hill's paintings (see vol.2 for acquisitions as late as 1890); data on his North Oaks, Hillier, and Humboldt farms; his charities, taxes, income from rents, dividends, interest received, real estate owned, and the companies in which he invested money. Other topics to watch are: St. Paul Seminary; education costs of his sons; donations to his children, etc. In fact, much of Hill's financial activities and status  be found in these pages, which are merely press copies of doc-
