

Taylor, Maud Van Cortland

May 24, 1901

Stanford Newel to Hill

"I believe that Maud's father, Cort Taylor, is capable of starving to death, guarding uncounted money, not belonging to him, rather than take what belongs to another. There are very few men in the world of whom that can be said -- and he does not think he is entitled to any credit for honesty."

General Correspondence by Date

