

Tuck, Edward

January 2, 1902

Edward Tuck to James J. Hill.

Has been vacationing in Egypt and has not been able to get much news there, but does "know that the Pharaohs of the Northwest, otherwise called the Governors, have been attacking our property and that you are fighting the battles of your stock holders."

Hopes that "the year 1902 may prove a less laborious and more peaceful one to you than 1901 has been."
