

The background of the entire page is a stylized illustration. It features a central utility pole with several cross-arms and insulators. A single bird is perched on one of the power lines to the left. The sky is a mix of light blue and purple, with stylized, layered clouds. At the bottom, there is a silhouette of a landscape with a large tree on the right and a smaller tree on the left, set against a sunset or sunrise background with orange and yellow tones.

The ability to create electricity has transformed lives in Minnesota since 1882.

Today, we often take electricity for granted. But imagine having electricity available at the flick of a switch for the first time! Imagine, too, how we will generate electricity in the 21st century. Electrifying Minnesota invites you to rediscover a sense of wonder about how making and using electricity shapes our lives.
