Virtual Research Papers & Virtual Regional Contest

February 27

Confirm Judges: We will confirm category judging assignments based on the total number of projects submitted. First priority for selecting Research Paper judges goes to those judges who are not judging at other Minnesota History Day events.

March 3

Receive Entries: You will receive an email with links to 8-10 projects, judging instructions, top entry reporting form, judge comment forms and contact information for your judge partner. All materials will be distributed to judges electronically.

March 3-13

Review and Discuss Projects: Make contact with your judge partner. Read/view and evaluate the projects. Working with your partner, come to a consensus on the top entries. Each judge will complete their own comment forms on all entries.

March 13

Submit Results: Report the ranked order of your team's top entries via web form no later than this date.

March 17

Return Comment Forms: Completed comment sheets for ALL entries must be submitted

State History Day

“Frontiers in History: People, Places, Ideas”

Frontiers in History allows students to explore topics related to all facets of history from across the globe. Frontiers can be thought of in two broad ways:

- A geographical boundary. These topics will focus primarily on people and places.
- The limit of something, Especially the limit of what is known about a particular subject, possible in terms of achievement, or what is accepted as status quo in society. These sorts of topics focus on ideas and innovation.

Students will need to identify multiple perspectives, or differing points of view, to create a strong argument. They will use the theme to prove why their topic is important in history.

In-Person Judging: Documentaries, Exhibits, Performances, and Websites

Judging in the Documentary, Exhibit, Performance, and Website categories is done on-site at Regional events and at State History Day. Judges work in teams to view projects and interview students in-person. Judge teams select top entries and provide feedback to all students. Judges in these categories are required to attend the event for which they are registered and will attend a virtual training prior to the event.

Virtual Judging

There will be a traditional off-site Research Paper Contest and one Virtual Regional Contest this year for all other categories. In these contests, students will submit digital versions of their projects that History Day will then send to judges.

These judges will review projects over several days and then work with a judge partner to come to a consensus on project rankings by the deadline. Each judge will provide written feedback via ZFairs.

Research Papers will have a Semi-Final Round to determine the top 12 Finalists that will advance to the State Contest. All other categories may have a Final-Round to determine which entries are eligible to advance to State.

There is no in-person judging requirement for Research Papers and the Virtual Regional Contest.

Are there any special qualifications to be a judge?

There are no required qualifications to judge a History Day event. However, judges should be older than high school age, possess an interest in history and be comfortable making decisions. Both new and experienced judge are welcome at the Regional level of competition.

Due to the high stakes of competition at State, all State-level judges should have previous judging experience at a History Day competition. This experience could have been at any level (School, Regional, State, or National), in the current year, or any previous year.

Important Notes for 2023

We will all be re-adapting to in-person contests and have made a few changes to improve your experience.

- 1. Judge Training: We will be offering virtual training in advance of contests that all judges will be expected to complete. There will be sessions for new and experienced judge with streamlined information. The day-of an in-person contest, training will be consolidated to focus on logistics. Dates of these trainings will be announced in February.
- 2. Online Evaluations: Judges will have access to online evaluation forms and student's written materials through ZFairs, History Day's contest management system. Judges who wish to submit online written feedback, must provide their own device (laptop or tablet) at the contest. Printed comment sheets will be available for those judges who do not have a device.
- 3. Written Materials in Advance: Students will be asked to submit their Process Paper and Annotated Bibliography during registration. Judges will receive access to these via ZFairs approximately one week prior to the contest if they wish to review them in advance.
- 4. Masking at Events: We will follow the masking guidance and regulations provided at individual venues. At this time we will not have a History Day-specific mask mandate.

What if I judged last year and have a ZFairs account already?

ZFairs deletes accounts every year, so all judges will need a new one. Due to the number of events that we have and how the system works, History Day staff will create a login for you this year. Your account information will be shared with you prior to the event, you can change your password at that time if you choose.

How do you handle conflicts of interest?

Judges notify us of any conflicts of interest when registering, including any schools or students with which they have deep relationships. When assigning judges, we place these judges in categories and divisions in which these schools/students are not participating.
