Research and Sections of a History Day Project

Research is the most important part of a History Day project. You will read sources (books, articles, websites, and more) and take notes. You will learn why your topic is important in history. You will use this information to to write the thesis and text for each section of your project.

Go beyond researching just what happened during the main events of your topic. Learn about what happened before, during, and after your topic.

The information that you find in each of these areas will be part of your final project. Each type of History Day project should have separate sections to discuss what happened before, during, and after the main events of your topic. These might be:
- Sections on an Exhibit
- Pages on a Website
- Segments of a Documentary
- Scenes in a Performance
- Paragraphs in a Paper

Before	During	After
Background or Long Before the Event • What background information or context does your audience need to know about your topic? • What events or ideas happened before your topic to influence it? • What issues, problems, or challenges were the main players of your topic trying to change?	Heart of the Story or During the Event Look for the 5W's and an H: • What happened? • How did it happen? • When did it happen? • Why did it happen? • Who was involved or affected? • Where did it happen?	Short-Term Impact or Right After the Event • What happened or changed right away as a result of your main event? • What were the positive and negative consequences? • How did this event impact different groups of people?
Build-Up or Right Before the Event • Who are the main players? • What are they doing to get ready for the main event of your topic? • What events led up to the main event?		Long-Term Impact or Long After the Event • So what? • Why is your topic important in history? • How has your topic changed history? • How did your topic influence later people, ideas, or events?

Research Questions 101

Research questions are an important part of the historical research process. They will help you to move from just finding facts about your topic, to answering historical questions about our past, and answering them with evidence.

Research questions are not the same as your research topic, but they're connected to it.
Your topic is where you start. It's the subject (person, place, event, idea) that you are learning more about. Your research question helps you to dig deeper into something specific about your topic.

You won't be able to write research questions right away. You first need to learn the basics - who was involved, what happened, when and where it took place. You will answer these questions with pre-research, or information gathering.

Good research questions involve a historical concept. Think about:
● Cause and effect
● Significance or impact in history
● Connection to historical context
● Comparison and contrast
● Change and continuity over time
● Connections to larger issues or trends in history

In a National History Day project, you may also want to consider research questions that connect to the annual theme. Visit our website for more help on developing research questions.

Characteristic	Instead of...	Try...
Good research questions are open-ended. Think why and how, not who, when, or where.	Who was Rosa Parks? Where did she live? What did she do?	How did non-violent protest strategies impact public support for the Montgomery bus boycott?
Good research questions need to be answered analysis, not just a few facts.	How did women fight for the right to vote?	How did global events influence the suffrage movement in the United States?
Good research questions are the right size for your project. Not too broad.	How has women's fashion changed over time?	How did women's changing roles during WWII impact US women's fashion?
Good research questions are not biased. They don't include the answer or a set point of view in the question.	How did the foolishness of the captain of the Titanic cause it to hit an iceberg and sink?	How did safety precautions influence the building and use of the Titanic?
Good research questions are knowable. There is historical evidence to help you answer it.	What is the meaning of life?	How did the 1925 Scopes Trial impact the teaching of science and evolution?
Good research questions are historical. Avoid moral or ethical questions.	Was it right for the United States to drop an atomic bomb on Japan during World War II?	How did the first use of the atomic bomb impact future military conflicts?
Good research questions are not "what if history." There's no way to know the answer to these questions.	What if Abraham Lincoln didn't issue the Emancipation Proclamation in 1863?	How did the Emancipation Proclamation change the Civil War and public opinion about it?

Figuring Out the Sections of Your Project

What goes in each section of your project? Thinking about it in this order can help!

1. Start with the Heart of the Story. This should include the main events of your topic you plan to focus on.
2. Next, go to the Build-Up. What happened right before the main event? Think of it as the "spark" that got your main event going.
3. Now, go to the Background. What bigger ideas and issues does your viewer need to understand before the Build-Up and Heart? Describe the related issues or problems that were going on before the main events.
4. Now, you can outline the Short-Term Impact. What were the immediate results of your main event?
5. Last, think about the Long-Term Impact. Explain major changes and how your topic connects to larger trends in history.

Before   During   After

Before	During	After
Background or Long Before the Event What related events happened long before your topic? This is the historical context. What background information does your reader need to know about topic? What events, ideas, or people influenced it? 3	Heart of the Story or During the Event 1 Start here! What is the main event that you're focusing on in your project? • What happened? Include important details. • How did it happen? • When did it happen? • Why did it happen? • Who was involved or affected? • Where did it happen?	Short-Term Impact or Right After the Event These are the events that happened right after the main event. What changed right away? Think about positive and negative changes. How did your topic impact different groups of people? 4
Build-Up or Right Before the Event Think about it as "the spark" for the main event. What events or ideas led up to the main event? What inspired people to get involved? Be more specific than the background section. 2		Long-Term Impact or Long After the Event These are the events that happened "long after your topic." Take a step back. How are things different because of your topic? How has your topic changed history? 5

Primary and Secondary Sources

You should look at many types of sources for your History Day project. Historians put sources into two categories: Primary Sources and Secondary Sources. Think about the author of the source to figure out if a source is primary or secondary.

What is a Primary Source? Primary sources are connected to your topic by time or participation. Primary sources were created during the time of the event or by someone who witnessed the event first-hand. Examples of Primary Sources: ● Artifacts ● Manuscript collections ● Interviews with participants ● Autobiographies ● Music from the period ● Government records ● Newspapers from the era ● Letters ● Photographs ● Original film footage	What is a Secondary Source? Secondary sources are created after an historical event. The author of a secondary source did not witness or participate in the event. Examples of Secondary Sources: ● Biographies ● History textbooks ● Books about the topic ● Encyclopedias ● Media documentaries ● Interviews with scholars/experts ● Websites

Avoid These Common Mistakes

- "Primary" doesn't mean "most important." Instead, think about how the author is connected to the topic and when the source was made to help you decide if each source is "primary" or not.

- It doesn't matter if you are looking at the original copy of a source. So long as a copy keeps the same wording or is the same image as the original, the copy still counts as a primary source.

- Yes, primary sources can be created after your topic took place. If the author took part in the topic, it is still a primary source, even if they made it after the fact.

- An interview is not always a primary source. If the person you are interviewing did NOT experience the topic first-hand, it's not a primary source. An interview with a professor or historian is NOT a primary source, unless they were a part of your main event or topic.

- Go beyond just photos for your primary sources. You can usually learn more about and event by reading newspapers, letters, diaries, or documents.

- Not all images are primary sources. Only photos or other images made at the time of the event or by someone who participated first-hand are primary sources.

- Beware of short quotes attributed to your historical person. A quote should come from a full source, not from an online list of quotes. Examining the full source will help you know if the quote is accurate and help you understand its meaning.

Primary and Secondary Source Brainstorm

1. What are some important words, dates, or people related to your topic? These words will help you to search for sources. When searching the internet, type key words instead of questions. Remember to check spelling!

2. What types of secondary sources might exist about your topic? Circle the types of sources you think you'll find about your topic.

Book	Scholarly Article	Video Documentary	Encyclopedia
History Textbook	Biography	Website	Interview with a Scholar

3. What types of primary sources might exist about your topic? Circle the types of sources you think you'll find about your topic.

Diary	Manuscript Collection	Government Records	Historic Objects or Sites
Historic Newspapers	Autobiography	Photographs	Interview with a Participant
Original Film Footage	Music of the Period	Letters

4. Where can you go to find this information? Use this chart to think about the places you could look for sources.

Resource	Tried it!	Doesn't work for my topic.

Visual and Media Brainstorm

You will need visuals or other media to support your argument and make your project "pop" in almost all History Day categories. Be creative and brainstorm more than just photographs. Circle the types of media you might find about your topic. Write notes about the sources you come across.

Photographs
The most obvious source for visuals is photographs. Look for high-resolution images, which will show up better in projects. Remember: Photography wasn't invented until the 1820s, so photos won't work for older topics.

Artwork
Did an artist represent your topic through painting, drawing, or sculpture?

Maps
Try to find historic or current maps to help your viewer understand where your topic happened.

Political Cartoons
Most political cartoons are printed in newspapers or magazines at the time of the event.

Newspapers
Headlines and article clippings from newspapers can be eye-catching visuals.

Film Footage
Moving pictures weren't invented until the late 1890s. Try looking for primary source footage for topics after this time period.

Music or Sound Recording
Look for recorded music, sound, sheet music, or compositions from the time period. Remember, sound wasn't recorded until the 1860s.

Interviews
Try conducting your own interview with a participant or expert, or search for one that has already been recorded.

Artifacts
Artifacts could include a variety of objects, like clothing, buildings, or other items from museum collections.

Charts and Graphs
Graphs and charts are great ways to show information in an easy to understand format.

Documents
Documents, like letters or government records, can be interesting visuals in a project.

Ephemera
These are items that were meant to be used for a short time, like movie tickets, posters, or postcards.

Propaganda or Ads
These illustrations, often posters or advertisements, were created to persuade people.

Organizing Info Option #1: Index Card System

One way you can take notes and organize your research is to use index cards. As you read through a source, you can use two types of note cards: source cards and note/quote cards.

- Step 1: Source Cards. Write down bibliographic information on an index card for each source. Include the type of source, title, author, and year the source was published. You will use this information to create your bibliography. Use a new index card for each source. It's helpful if your source cards are a different color than your note cards.

- Step 2: Note and Quote Cards. Use a different set of index cards to record the notes and quotes that you find in your source. Record each big idea or quote on a different note card. You will probably use lots of index cards for each source. Don't write on the back of the card!

- Step 3: Organize Your Information. Sort your cards into different stacks after you think you are done researching. Make one stack for each sections of your project (background, build-up, main event, short-term impact, and long-term impact). If you don't have any cards for a section, you'll need to go back and do a little more research.

Source Cards

Primary or secondary source

Type of source

Number your sources. Use the same number on the source cards and the note/quote cards. That way you will know which source the notes came from.

1   Secondary Source   Book

Kenney, Dave. Northern Lights: The Story of Minnesota's Past. St. Paul: Minnesota Historical Society Press, 2013.

This book contained a profile of Clara Ueland and her efforts to win voting rights for women. It also described the history of the suffrage movement in Minnesota. Illustrations in this book included a picture of Clara Ueland, a suffrage poster, and a picture of women voting for the first time in 1920.

Important Pages: 265-267

Bibliography information, including the author, title, publisher, year, etc.

Short summary of the source and how you used it in your research

Important pages you used or read

Note and Quote Cards

Title each note and quote card with the main subject of the card. This will help you organize.

Summarize the important details from the source in your own words. Use a new index card for any quotes.

Clara Ueland's Early Career and Suffrage Ideas   1

Clara Ueland taught school and campaigned for several causes before turning to the suffrage movement. She became president of the Minnesota Woman Suffrage Association in 1914.

Organizing Info Option #2: Table

Task: Copy key information from and take notes on each source you use. When you are done, talk to your teacher about how to transfer these into your annotated bibliography. You will need several copies of this page to take notes on all of your sources.

Tip: To help you organize your notes, highlight each source in a different color for the section of your project it fits best in (example: blue for background, green for build-up, yellow for main event, and so on).

Citation Add the MLA or Chicago citation. Use a generator like Citation Machine or BibMe to help you.	Type Primary or Secondary	Key Quotes or Info Copy key quotes or pieces of information from your source. Write down the page number, if there is one.	Paraphrased Notes Summarize the information from the source in your own words.
EXAMPLE: Kenney, Dave. Northern Lights: The Story of Minnesota's Past. St. Paul: Minnesota Historical Society Press, 2013.	Secondary	"By 1900, they could vote only in local elections for members of the school and library boards." (p. 265) "Opponents argued that women were homemakers." (p. 265) "Each time the Minnesota legislature met, women brought up suffrage." (p. 265)	Women had the right to vote in local elections, but not in state or national ones. Opponents of women's suffrage believed women should take care of homes and children and stay out of politics. Activists pressured Minnesota lawmakers to pass women's suffrage every session.

Organizing Info Option #3: Cornell Notes System

The Cornell Notes system is a different way to stay organized while taking notes. It uses a special worksheet which has been divided into sections to help you stay organized.

- Decide which section of your project the source is about. Keep in mind that a source could have information that fits into several different sections of your project. You will probably have several pages of Cornell Notes for each section of your project.
- Take notes on each source.
- Write down information for your bibliography.
- Write a short summary of what you learned.

You should have several pages of notes for each section of your project!

Step 4:
Stop and reflect right after you have finished reading the source. Write down the main ideas, vocabulary words, or questions from the source.

Step 1:
Fill out the top section with important information about you and your project.

Step 5:
Write a summary after you read the source and have pulled out the main ideas. This is a short overview of what you learned. Include important details about your topic.

Step 2:
Take notes as you read your sources. Keep your notes for each section of your project separated. For each note, write down the source and page number. This will help you keep your research organized.

Step 3:
Use this space to write bibliographic information for the source. Include the type of source, title, author, and year the source was published. You will use this information to create your bibliography.

Main Ideas: | Notes: Write the source and page number all your notes.

Summary: _____

National History Day in Minnesota   11

CORNELL NOTES: HEART OF THE STORY or DURING MY TOPIC

Name: Jenny Lopez   Class Period: 8

Topic: The Montgomery Bus Boycott

Task: Take notes for the During, or "Heart of the Story" section of your topic. Look for the 5W's: What happened? How did it happen? When did it happen? Why did it happen? Who was involved or affected? Where did it happen? Use the back of the sheet for pictures or quotes.

Main Ideas:	Notes: Write the source and page number all your notes.
Montgomery citizens	-Jo Ann Robinson and the Women's Political Council made flyers about Parks' arrest that were handed out anonymously. (68)
Organized a boycott	-Civil rights leaders agreed on a one-day boycott. (70)
	-The Montgomery Improvement Association (MIA) formed. MLK elected president. He was young and new to town. (73)
	-MIA had meeting to see if they wanted to continue. King gave speech. People voted "yes" to continue. (76)
Demands of MIA were not to end segregation originally	-MIA had three demands: (77)
	1. Courtesy from bus drivers
	2. Hiring of black bus drivers
	3. Seating on first-come, first-serve basis
Organizers implemented mutual aid to organize	-Black-owned cabs gave people low-cost fares during boycott. people with cars organized a transportation system. (78)
	-There was fundraising to help support the cause. (79)
Non-violence and MLK	-MLK preached about non-violence and how it was important to the success of the movement. (79)
	-Had read about Gandhi's fight against colonial rule. (79)
	-Christian Pacifism and the Bible. (79)
Why was non-violence important?	-The Montgomery Bus Boycott's success proved that non-violence could be used to successfully protest other segregation and inequality laws in the South (79)

Summary: Rosa Parks was arrested in 1955 for refusing to give up her bus seat to a white passenger.   This nonviolent protest aimed to expand the frontier of racial equality. Black citizens in Montgomery organized a year-long bus boycott, ending when the Supreme Court declared bus segregation unconstitutional, leading to other CIvil Rights Movement victories.

Write Your History Day Thesis: Option 1

Name: Jenny Lopez   Class Period: 8

Topic: The Montgomery Bus Boycott

Task: After you've taken notes on several sources, use what you've learned to answer the questions below. Summarize your information into a two sentence thesis, or historical argument. The first sentence should be a summary of the 5W's of your topic. The second sentence should explain the impact your topic had in history.

Question:	Answer:
Who was involved/ Who was affected?	Rosa Parks, residents of Montgomery, the Montgomery Improvement Association (MIA), Civil Rights Movement leaders, city officials, Martin Luther King, Jr.
What happened?	After Parks was arrested, Civil Rights leaders organized the MIA to lead the bus boycott, which economically hurt the city. A lawsuit followed that went to the Supreme Court, which ruled segregation as unconstitutional.
Where did it take place?	Montgomery, Alabama
When did it happen?	The boycott began December 5, 1955 and lasted 381 days.
Why did it happen? What caused it?	Civil Rights leaders wanted to overturn segregation laws on public transportation and boycotted by organizing ride shares and fundraising to support each other. King and others used a boycott to gain support through non-violence.
Why is it important? How did it change history? Think about your theme connection!	The boycott and lawsuit eventually caused the city and Supreme Court to end bus segregation. This success helped set the stage for other Civil Rights efforts to end segregation throughout the country.

Thesis Sentence 1: Summarize the 5W's.

Following Rosa Parks' 1955 arrest for refusing to move for a white passenger, Black citizens of Montgomery organized a bus boycott that pressured officials to end racial segregation.

Thesis Sentence 2: So what? How did your topic change history?

The year-long protest ended with the Supreme Court declaring bus segregation unconstitutional, which expanded the frontier for racial equality and other Civil Rights Movement victories.

Write Your History Day Thesis: Option 2

Name: _____ Class Period: _____

Task: Use your notes to answer the questions below and summarize your information into a thesis.

SAMPLE TOPIC: Rosa Parks and the Montgomery Bus Boycott

WHO: Who was involved? Who was affected? Rosa Parks, Citizens in Montgomery, Civil Rights Movement leaders, Montgomery's government officials

WHAT: What happened? What was the main event? Rosa Parks refused to give up her bus seat to a white passenger, which violated a law enforcing segregation on Montgomery city buses. She was arrested and went to jail. Civil rights leaders, including Martin Luther King, Jr., organized a boycott of buses and challenged the law as unconstitutional.

WHERE: Where was/were the place(s) it took place? Montgomery, Alabama

WHEN: When did it happen? How long of a time period was it? Rosa Parks was arrested on December 1, 1955. The boycott started on December 5 and lasted for 381 days.

WHY: Why did it happen? What caused it? Civil Rights Movement leaders wanted to overturn segregation laws. Rosa Parks attended training for non-violent protest at the Highlander Folk School.

WHY: Why is it important? What were the outcomes? The boycott forced change in Montgomery and succeeded in overturning the law requiring segregation on public transportation. This success inspired other Civil Rights Movement protests and helped Martin Luther King, Jr. and others develop nonviolent strategies to fight segregation.

THEME CONNECTION: Frontiers in History

- What was the frontier? Parks and Montgomery residents demonstrated that they would not tolerate segregation and proved that nonviolent protest was an effective method for creating change, which expanded the frontier for other Civil Rights Movement victories.

- How did things change? The boycott and Supreme Court victory showed the power of collective action and nonviolent protest strategies.

Put it all together into a thesis statement.

Rosa Parks was arrested in 1955 for refusing to give up her bus seat to a white passenger. This nonviolent protest aimed to expand the frontier of racial equality. Black citizens in Montgomery organized a year-long bus boycott, ending when the Supreme Court declared bus segregation unconstitutional, leading to other Civil Rights Movement victories.

My Summary: What happened? How did it happen? When did it happen? Why did it happen? Who was involved or affected? Where did it happen?

Rosa Parks' arrest was the spark for a 381 day bus boycott that began in Montgomery, Alabama on December 5, 1955. Community leaders saw her arrest as an opportunity to challenge segregation on public transportation.

Religious and Civil Rights leaders began a one-day boycott, organized by the newly formed Montgomery Improvement Association. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. was elected as the leader. Influenced by Gandhi and Christian Pacifism, King advocated for non-violence, which he felt would build support from people in the white community.

At first, the MIA's demands didn't include an end to segregation. They wanted courtesy from drivers, the hiring of Black drivers, and seating on a first-come, first-serve basis.

As the boycott went on, the MIA raised funds and coordinated transportation for the boycotters. The bus company and businesses in Montgomery began to suffer economically. Five women then sued the city to end segregation.
